

OLYMPUS MOVES INTO NEW EMEA HEADQUARTERS IN HAMBURG

After the successful move-in, the partnership model between Olympus and the Zech Group has been successfully completed.

What those involved in the project think:

Rainer Eichholz, Managing Director of Zech Group SE, responsible for the Real Estate division:

“We are delighted to have completed this challenging project for and with Olympus. Roughly four years after signing the contracts, we have now handed over the new building to its new owners and tenants and wish all involved nothing but success at the new site.”

Nikolaus Goetze, gmp-Partner (Gerkan, Marg und Partner; Hamburg-based architects):

“With its MedTech focus, the Olympus Campus represents a new and creative center of innovation in the Hammerbrook district. Through exchange with the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences (Hochschule für Angewandte Wissenschaften Hamburg [HAW]), a mini Silicon Valley can develop within Hamburg, which I see as a great opportunity for the district and a true win-win situation for all involved.”

Dr. Joachim Gripp, CEO Design Offices: “We are opening our third location in Hamburg at the Olympus Campus and will be able to offer project teams and companies modern and high-quality equipped offices, co-working spaces, meeting rooms, and conference rooms. We’re playing our part in the development of the Hammerbrook district as an urban office and business quarter. We would like to thank Olympus and the Zech Group for the timely completion and the good partnership we developed.”

Sabrina Voecks, Creative Director and Partner at JOI-Design Innenarchitekten: “It was a fascinating challenge to understand the brand and translate these findings into three-dimensional space. To achieve this, we discussed our ideas along with the needs and functions of the building in close cooperation with the employees and created an environment with our interior design concept that is, at the same time, interesting, useful, and exciting for employees, customers, and guests as well as offering added value in the area of New Work.”
